Affiliate program terms

Commission, recurring or one-time, cookie window, minimum payout, payout method and network — for 501 affiliate programs. Every figure was read off the vendor's own program page, links back to it, and carries the date it was read.

What this file is

- Read, not scraped. Every figure comes from the vendor's own program page, with the source URL and the date on every record.
- not stated* means the vendor publishes nothing — not that it was not looked for. That is a finding about the vendor, and it applies to 39% of the fields here.
- Terms change without notice. Check the source before you commit to a program; every program name in the table links to it.
- Nobody paid to be in this file, and no vendor can pay to change a figure in it.

What is in it

1. The shape of the market — how the 501 pay, and what they withhold.
   from page 2
2. The directory — every program, all 9 columns, grouped into 19 sections.
   after the charts
3. The same data as a CSV, alongside this file — sortable, filterable, 501 rows, one column per field.

Licensed CC BY 4.0 (creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0): use, share and republish it, commercially too, crediting https://affiliateprogramterms.com with a link.

Every record carries

Program · Section · Commission · Recurring or one-time · Recurring months · Cookie window · Minimum payout · Payout method · Network · Notes · Product URL · Program page · Source read · Date checked

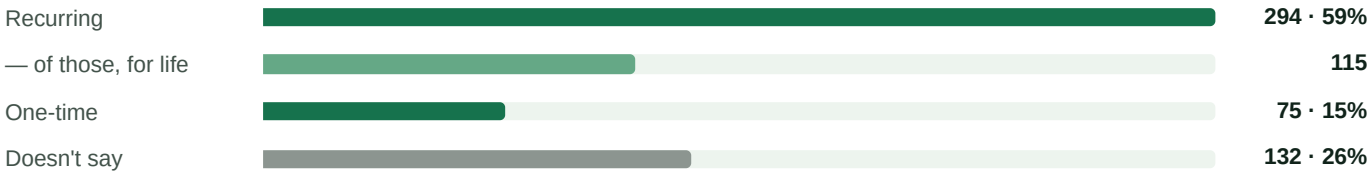

The same 14 columns are the 14 columns of the CSV, one row per program. Anything the vendor does not publish is empty there and not stated here — never estimated, never filled in from a third party.

The shape of the market

What these 501 programs pay, and how much they tell you before you send them traffic. Every figure is counted from the records in this file.

How you actually get paid

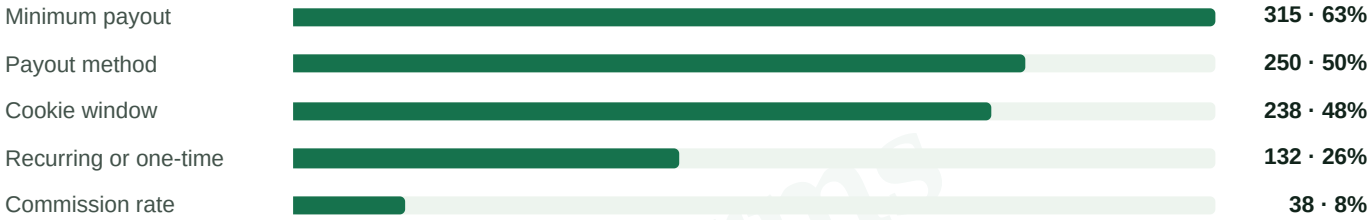

The single biggest lever in any program, across all 501.

On a $100/month product, 30% for the customer's lifetime pays $360 a year indefinitely; a $150 one-time bounty pays $150, ever. 132 programs leave you to find out which you are getting after the sale.

What vendors leave out

Programs that publish nothing at all for each term.

Every one of these was looked for on the vendor's own program page. A bar here is a vendor that publishes the term nowhere — not a gap in this file.

How much a program tells you before you join

Programs by how many of the five terms above they publish.

87 programs publish all five. 64 publish one or none — for those, the terms arrive after you have applied.

Every section, and how much it tells you

Programs per section, and the average number of the five terms they publish. The table that follows runs in alphabetical order.

What the terms actually say

The three terms that decide whether a commission ever reaches you — how long a click counts, what you must earn before you are paid, and who does the paying.

Cookie windows

How long a click keeps earning, for the 259 programs that state it.

263 of 501 publish a window · 238 publish none

Median 60 days; 4 never expire. Under 30 days you are paid only for traffic that was ready to buy today.

Minimum payout thresholds

What you have to earn before any of it reaches you, for the 166 that name a figure in dollars.

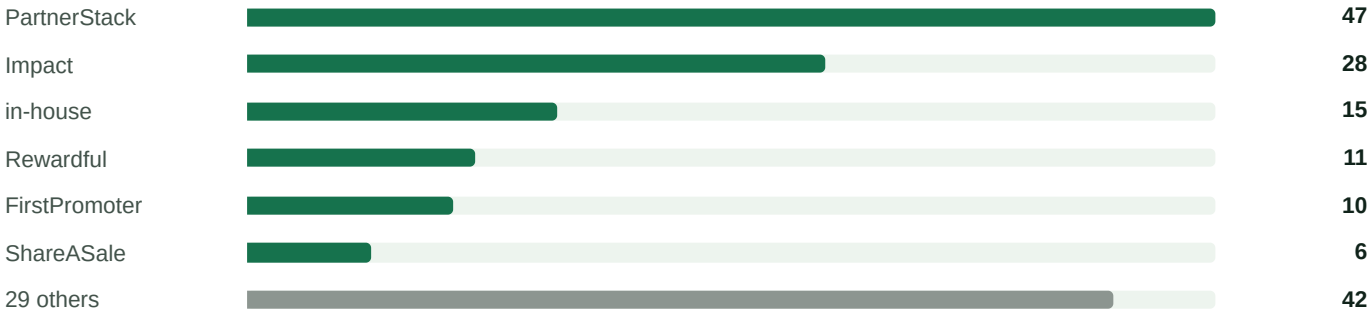

186 of 501 publish a threshold · 315 publish none

Median $50, highest $450. 10 state they have no minimum, and 10 name a threshold in another currency or in referrals. A threshold you never reach is a commission you never receive.

Which network a program runs on 159 of 501 name one. It decides how and when you are paid, and what you sign.

Silence here is not counted against a vendor anywhere in this file: a company that names no network is usually running the program itself.

Reading the directory that follows

501 programs in 19 sections, alphabetical throughout, 9 columns each. Every program name is a link to the page its figures were read from — use it before you commit to a program, because terms change without notice.

Commission is quoted in the vendor's own words, because "30%" and "30% of the first year" are not the same offer. Type is what you are paid when a customer renews. Terms is how many of the five committable terms that vendor publishes. not stated means the vendor publishes nothing — a finding, not a gap.

	Recurring 'up to three years per customer' (recorded as 36 months). 90-day last-click window, reset by each new click. Paid monthly, no cap. The /partner hub's 'up to 30% in Year 1' is the separate reseller programme.

Referral scheme: 25% of a referred Pro customer's monthly subscription, compounding every month with no stated time limit, capped at $10,000 total; the referred contact also gets 30% off, and the referral link never expires (the page gives no attribution window). Separate 'Ambassador' influencer scheme pays for social posts about tl;dv rather than for sales: $100 per 20k organic impressions, capped at $700 for tl;dv-only posts or $200 for multi-tool posts, open to approved influencers with audiences in Product Management, UXR, AI/GPT, Sales or Customer Success.

Auphonic auphonic.com	20%	recurring	30 days	$100	Bank account, via FastSpring	FastSpring	5/5	2026-10-27
	Commission continues on every purchase (subscription renewals and one-time credits) for as long as the referred account's affiliate assignment is valid; that assignment (from a free signup, or an existing freemium user's first purchase) is only good for two years, and a lapsed-then-resubscribed user only pays out again if that happens within two years of the original assignment — so this is not an unconditional lifetime recurring commission. If a visitor clicks more than one affiliate link before signing up, the last link clicked gets the credit (overrides the 30-day cookie). Withdrawals are made twice a month once the balance is above $100; below that, payout only happens when the affiliate account is closed.
